

Inference Double Word Replacement

About These Problems

To answer these questions you must find the set of synonyms in the multiple choices that match the meaning in the sentence. If the context requires two words that mean the same thing, sometimes just finding the words that mean the same thing regardless of exact definition can help. In this scenario, look at the relation of the words more than the context of the sentence.

Question. The ability for mammals to _____ without using eggs is what _____ them from amphibians and reptiles.

- A. euthanize, neutralizes
- B. resuscitate, assimilates
- C. procreate, distinguishes
- D. rehabilitate, separates
- E. ameliorate, identifies

Answer. C: The sentence seeks to first use a verb identify what mammals do without eggs. The second portion claims that this ability separates them from reptiles and amphibians, which do use eggs. The best word choice for this sentence are procreate and distinguishes in option C.
